

Teenagers can't live without their phone.

Amanda Brooks, released from foster care July 2007

www.theteenproject.us

Some teens never get the chance to be teens. A shocking 25% of the almost 25,000 homeless youth in California were in foster care just last year. They were cast out of the system without a place to go simply because they turned 17½ years old. We must succeed where the law fails. The Teen Project™ will provide safe, sober transitional housing and ongoing support through the Friends for Life™ program. Providing every teen with an equal chance at life. To find out how you can help, visit our Web site at www.theteenproject.us or call (888) 4-TEEN-HOME.

NO BICYCLES ALLOWED ON PREMISES

Teenagers just sit on the couch all day.

Josh Hernandez, released from foster care February 2007

Teenagers love to stay out all night.

Chelsea Ganon, released from foster care September 2007